BRAND REPOSITIONING, MARKETING & LEASE-UP STRATEGY

A NOTE TO BEGIN

A note to begin.

Tatiana, thank you for trusting us with Ridgewood Court.

Before we talk deliverables or timelines, we want to be clear on what we heard. You have a well-located center with strong bones, real daily traffic, and recognizable anchors. The opportunity now is not to reinvent it. It is to reposition how it is seen and fill it with the right tenants.

The pages that follow are built around that. Ridgewood Court does not need a relaunch. It needs a clear brand, intentional marketing, and a focused lease-up strategy that protects what is already working while bringing in what is missing.

That is exactly the kind of work Marée was built to do, and we are glad to be doing it with you.

MARÉE CREATIVE

THE OPPORTUNITY

What we heard.

Ridgewood Court sits on one of the metro's busiest retail corridors, minutes from the interstate and surrounded by national draws. It already has loyal anchors and steady foot traffic. What it does not yet have is a clear identity or a story that tells shoppers and tenants why to choose it.

The center is underleased, and the open spaces are the whole opportunity. Filling them with the right mix does two things at once: it protects the anchors already in place and it turns the center into a destination rather than a stop.

Our role: reposition the brand, market it with intention, and give you a lease-up strategy you can actually run on. Reposition, not relaunch.

WHO WE ARE

Built inside development.

Marée is a creative placemaking and brand studio, and a Bellamare Development company. We do not advise from the outside. We have leased space, filled centers, and stood behind the decisions that make a property work.

That is the lens we bring to Ridgewood Court. We approach it the way an owner would, because we have been one. Every recommendation is made with leasing, traffic, and the bottom line in mind.

OUR APPROACH

Our approach to Ridgewood.

We lead with what the trade area already proves it wants, value and family-friendly experiences, and make landing a strong national tenant the first lease-up priority. The goal is a center that families choose for errands, outings, and everyday life, not a concept that fights the market.

Discover	We learn the site, the market, the audience, and the gaps. We confirm who the center should serve and what the right tenant mix looks like.
Reposition	We build the brand: identity, story, and voice, positioned as convenient, family-friendly value with everyday experiences that pull from the whole corridor.
Launch	The marketing plan goes live, social pages open, leasing materials roll out, and the first events bring people through the doors.
Manage	Ongoing social, content, events, and search optimization, with monthly check-ins so the strategy keeps adjusting to what's working.
